Weavers' Strike Will Be Settled. It was reported Thursday that the directors of the Windham Silk company would soon hold a meeting and that as a result the strike of the weavers will be settled.

The weavers have been out since the first part of May and the mill has been closed since the middle of that month. The weavers originally de-manded an increase of afteen per-cent, but in order that a settlement of the matter might be effected they the matter might be effected they compromised by offering to go back to work for a ten per cent, increase. Five per cent, was offered by the company but this was not acceptable.

It has been the company's custom to start the manufacture of its fail lines of goods soon after the Fourth of July and the company has now lost several weeks' time on the work as a result of the strike. One close to the affairs of the Silk company stated Tuesday that the labor difficulty would soon be settled which will certainly be good news for the company, the weavers and the public generally.
